Executive Proclamation

Office of the Governor

Whereas, Traumatic brain injury is a serious, national public health epidemic that results in a life-altering experience that can include the most serious physical, cognitive, and emotional impairments; and,

Whereas, Each year 1.7 million Americans sustain a traumatic brain injury; and,

Whereas, A traumatic brain injury is a contributing factor to a third of all injury-related deaths in the United States, and injuries are largely the result of motor vehicle crashes, falls, assaults, sports related injuries, or occupational injuries; and,

Whereas, Traumatic brain injury was the signature injury of the war in Iraq and in Afghanistan, presenting new challenges for members of the military and their families; and,

Whereas, Early, equal, and adequate access to care will greatly increase overall quality of life and will enable individuals to return to home, school, work, and community; and,

Whereas, The lack of public awareness is so vast that traumatic brain injury is known in the disability community as the nation's "silent epidemic"; and,

Whereas, March has been designated as Brian Injury Awareness Month to promote public awareness of the extent, causes, consequences, treatment, and prevention of traumatic brain injury:

Now, Therefore, I, Dennis Daugaard, Governor of the state of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim March 2017 as

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the state of South Dakota, in Pierre, the Capital City, this Thirteenth Day of February in the Year of Our Lord, Two Thousand and Seventeen.
